Zoom Q&A

We will be holding an informal Q&A session to answer questions about our MFA program and application process on Friday, November 21st at 10am PST. In advance of our session, we invite you to review information about our program on our website and information about our application process below. Register for the Q&A session here:

MFA APPLICATION PROCESS

The UBC School of Creative Writing welcomes applications to our MFA Program for the 2026/2027 academic year. On this page, you'll find specific information related to preparing and submitting your application. For more detailed information regarding our programs (tuition, funding opportunities, policies, etc.) be sure to visit our application FAQ page.

We look forward to your application.

The Process

1. Prospective students apply to UBC using the Graduate & Postdoctoral Studies online application form.
2. Applicants must upload all required documents, including: copies of official university transcripts, a Statement of Intent, a literary CV, and a creative portfolio. Applicants also enter referee names and email addresses; referees will be contacted automatically by the online application system. Incomplete applications cannot be considered.

3. During the assessment process, our faculty review and rank the applications and select the successful applicants.
4. Successful applicants who meet UBC's academic qualifications will be formally offered admission at UBC.
5. Acceptance is confirmed once original official transcripts have been received by Graduate & Postdoctoral Studies for final review.

We aim to contact successful applicants with an offer of admissions by mid-March 2026.

Application Details

Application period opens: October 15th, 2025.

Application Deadline: All online applications must be completed and submitted by midnight PST on Tuesday, January 6th, 2026.

On-Line UBC Application Form

<https://www.grad.ubc.ca/prospective-students/application-admission>

Please review UBC's admission requirements and application instructions. You will create a CWL (Campus Wide Login) account when you apply. If you already have a CWL from a previous application, please use your existing CWL account.

Choosing the Correct Program

When you begin the application process, please search for the program you are applying to (using the "Program Search" button). Ensure you select UBC's Vancouver Campus. Search for "creative" as the Program Keyword.

You have three program choices when applying:

1. M.F.A. in Creative Writing (On Campus) (September 1, 2026 start date)
2. M.F.A. in Creative Writing (Distance Education) (July 1, 2026 start date)
3. M.F.A. in Creative Writing and Theatre (September 1, 2026 start date)

Note: you'll also see the Film Production and Creative Writing degree listed. This degree is coordinated by the film program, not by Creative Writing. Further details can be found here: MFA Film Production and Creative Writing | UBC Theatre and Film

Note: The Master of Arts in Children's Literature (MACL) degree is coordinated by the School of Information. Further details can be found here: <https://macl.arts.ubc.ca/prospective-students/application-process/>

Application Fee

The current fee is CDN $118.50 for Canadian applicants (citizens, permanent residents, refugees & diplomats). International applicants pay CDN $168.25. This fee is set by UBC Graduate & Postdoctoral Studies.

<https://www.grad.ubc.ca/prospective-students/application-admission/online-application-fee>

Waived Fee for Indigenous Applicants

Because of a generous donor, applicants who self-declare as Indigenous (First Nations, Métis or Inuit) can have their application fee waived. Please email the program to request a unique coupon code that must be entered in advance of submitting the application in eVision. Eligible applicants who have paid the fee will not be issued a refund. Applicants who apply to multiple programs may receive a coupon from one program but not another. In the event of a false self-declaration, we will cancel the application and/or withdraw any offer of admission, whether the applicant has accepted or not.

Academic Requirements

Students must have an existing four-year undergraduate degree (or the equivalent for international students) with a minimum B+ average in order to pursue graduate studies at UBC. In limited cases, applicants without a four-year bachelor's degree, but with significant formal training or relevant professional experience, may be granted admission. Please see our application FAQs, and the Prospective Students section of the Faculty of Graduate & Postdoctoral Studies website at <https://www.grad.ubc.ca/prospective-students>, for more information.

We strongly recommend reviewing all UBC Graduate requirements in advance of your application to determine eligibility and to help you prepare for the process. If you are not considered eligible by UBC you will not be able to enter the program, even if we have accepted your portfolio.

GRE/GMAT & Other Academic Scores

GRE, GMAT and other academic scores are not required.

Transcripts – Please Follow Carefully

<https://www.grad.ubc.ca/prospective-students/application-admission/transcripts-academic-documents>

Applicants must first upload scanned or photographed copies of official transcripts (front and back) in PDF format to the application website when they apply. Applicants must include ALL current and previous post-secondary study the applicant has undertaken, regardless if it resulted in a degree. To be considered official, these transcripts must either be on official letterhead or contain the institutional stamp or seal. Unofficial copies of academic history reports will not be accepted. **If an offer of admission is made, applicants will then be required to order official hard copies of all transcripts sent directly from their institution to Graduate Studies (6371 Crescent Road, Vancouver, BC, V6T 1Z2).

Reference Letters

Reference letters should be received by January 31, 2026. A late reference will make it more difficult to evaluate your application, so please ensure your referees will be able to submit their references on time.

UBC requires two reference letters with each application. Academic references, as well as work or personal references are acceptable. References are most commonly submitted using UBC's E-reference system, which is part of the online application. Please note: we are unable to accept electronic submissions from referees using Hotmail, Yahoo, Gmail, MSN or other free e-mail accounts. These referees will need to submit paper references.

Full information including the official paper referee form can be found on the Graduate & Postdoctoral Studies website at <https://www.grad.ubc.ca/prospective-students/application-admission/letters-reference>

Electronic references: In the online application system, applicants are asked to provide an e-mail address for each referee. A unique link will be emailed to each referee, allowing them to log in to a secure site and submit an online reference. Including an additional reference document as an attachment is optional.

Paper references: Reference letters must be sent to the Creative Writing Program and must be in a sealed envelope with the referee's signature across the seal. Referees may send their paper reference initially by email to crwr.grad@ubc.ca but are still required to mail a hard copy. Referees may use the official form (link below), letterhead or plain white paper. We accept a postmark date before the deadline; letters do not need to be couriered. https://www.grad.ubc.ca/sites/default/files/forms/reference\_letter\_academic.pdf

Address for referees sending letters of reference by mail:

TOEFL Testing

Applicants from a university outside Canada in which English is not the primary language of instruction must present evidence of competency to pursue studies in the English language prior to being extended an offer of admission. Tests must have been taken within the last 24 months at the time of submission of your application.

Applicants who have studied at an institution where English was the language of instruction do not need to provide English proficiency results. See the UBC Grad Studies page- English Language Test

Course Selection

Please do not select or request courses with your application. Students select courses once enrolled in the program.

Application to Both MFA Programs

Students may apply to both the on-campus MFA and Distance Education MFA programs if they wish. Each application will be evaluated by a separate reading committee. Students (except for those self-declaring as Indigenous) must pay the application fee separately for each program. Referees must submit references to each program separately. The application deadline is the same for both programs.

MFA in Creative Writing & Theatre Applicants

MFA in Creative Writing & Theatre applicants must choose the M.F.A. in Creative Writing & Theatre program when applying online. They must also be accepted by the Theatre Program in addition to the approval of Graduate & Postdoctoral Studies. Students who apply to the Joint Program in Creative Writing and Theatre (MFA in Playwriting & Theatre) cannot also apply to the On-Campus or Distance Education MFA Programs.

Email is the primary means of communication for this program. Applicants will be notified by email of the results of the competition. Please ensure that you update your UBC Application and CWL account if your email address changes after your application.

Portfolio Guidelines

Before You Prepare Your Portfolio

Due to the volume of applications that we receive, we are, unfortunately, unable to pre-evaluate portfolios, offer critiques of manuscript submissions, or provide rationale to students who are not accepted into the program. To find out if you will be accepted, you must apply.

The MFA is a program for experienced writers. If you're interested in beginner-focused creative writing curriculum, we invite you to consider our Minor Program Course offerings and our Continuing Education course offerings.

What to Include in Your Portfolio

We look forward to reading your creative portfolio. All work should be in English and should follow the guidelines below

File Specifications

All files must be in Microsoft Word, PDF (Adobe Acrobat) or Rich Text format. All modern word processors are capable of producing files in one of these formats. Electronic submissions in other formats will be rejected by the application form.

We require all applicants to upload three separate files in the Experience and Interests section of the online application. All must be in Microsoft Word, PDF (Adobe Acrobat) or Rich Text format and each can be up to 10MB in size, maximum. The files are:

1. Statement of Intent: Approx. 500 words, single-spaced

While some MFA programs focus on mentorship and specialization, our multi-genre MFA encourages exploration, collaboration and community. Writers who apply should be committed practitioners moving towards professionalization in their primary genre. Applicants should have an interest in furthering their development in a community environment, as a member of a mutually respectful and supportive creative cohort.

The statement of intent is given careful consideration by faculty and should be written by you in your own voice. Statements of intent are judged by their clarity in detailing the applicant's literary experience, potential contributions to the program, and planned thesis project. Statements generated using GenAI tools will not be considered.

We encourage you to:

- Detail evidence of your writing practice: works completed, prior study or mentorship, current practice. Highlight engagement with any literary/dramatic arts/arts communities.
- Discuss what you hope to contribute to your MFA peer community and what you hope to get back.
- Briefly detail your anticipated thesis project – be sure to specify the genre of your thesis.

- Provide examples of your ability to work creatively in a self-directed environment, manage multiple creative projects, and meet deadlines.
  - Offer concrete examples of how your DEI awareness and practices intersect with UBC Creative Writing's multi-year process of building and reinforcing anti-racist and anti-colonialist pedagogies and structures in our School.
2. Literary CV/Resume: This should list any past education, publications, awards/scholarships, involvement in literary community, and any relevant experiences.
  3. Portfolio: This must include at least two different genres of writing (maximum of three). It must be numbered and formatted as one complete document. The form will only accept one portfolio file.

Portfolio Details

Table of Contents

Include a Table of Contents for the writing portfolio with the genre of each piece indicated beside its title. Your main genre should be at the top of the list.

Numbering

All pages must be numbered. It is also helpful to place your last name on every page as part of the page footer.

Genre Requirement

Your portfolio must include a minimum of 2 different genres. Three genres are preferable but not absolutely essential. We would rather you send work in 2 strong genres rather than including a weak genre to make 3.

File Names

Ensure that you name your files correctly with your first and last names. For example: Jules Verne's application contains three files. 1: verne_jules_statement.doc 2: verne_jules_cv.doc 3: verne_jules_portfolio.doc

Length Requirement

The page length requirement for each genre submitted should be followed as closely as is reasonable without exceeding it. For example: in short fiction, if you have one short story which runs 15 pages, you could submit it alone, but if you submit only one story of 5 pages, this is not sufficient. You may send more than one piece in a particular genre, as long as the cumulative page count in that genre does not exceed our requirements. Short & long fiction are not considered separate genres; therefore, you must send in another genre in addition to fiction.

Do not submit work in genres not offered in our program.

Do not use non-standard fonts, font sizes or page margins in order to squeeze in more material; our faculty will be able to evaluate your writing based on the page requirements stated. We prefer 12-point Times New Roman or similar.

Individual Genre Length Requirements

PLEASE NOTE: You must be the sole creator of any submitted work, without copyright or intellectual property infringement. We do not accept fanfiction, collaborative work, or work created with the assistance of GenAI. Failure to adhere to these guidelines will remove the application from consideration and/or lead to a withdrawal of any offer of admission, whether the applicant has accepted or not.

Poetry: 15 pages, single-spaced, one poem maximum per page.

Fiction: 20 pages, double-spaced. For example, this could be two 10 page short stories totaling 20 pages or a 20 page novel excerpt (outline not required).

(Note: short fiction & novel/novella are not considered separate genres; therefore, you must submit a second genre in addition to fiction.)

Graphic Novel: 25 pages. PDF or Word format only. Material can be script only, or, if you illustrate your own work, the finished comic. Do not submit a script and finished comic for the same piece - choose one or the other. Keep in mind that the entire portfolio cannot exceed 10MB in size. For layout, please follow the specific Comic Script Template in the appendix at the end of these guidelines.

Screenplay: The first 20 pages of a screenplay as well as a two-page outline for the same screenplay, or a 20-page short screenplay. Standard screenplay format. Sample scripts (also called show scripts) from pre-existing television series as well as adaptations or collaborations of any kind are not acceptable -- the writing, development of characters, etc., must be original to you.

Stage Play: 20-page excerpt from a full-length play, or two one-acts totaling 20 pages all together. Standard stage play format. The exception to this rule: Applicants to the Joint Creative Writing/Theatre Program are allowed to submit one full-length play and/or three one-act plays. There is no page limit for these applicants' manuscripts.

Non-Fiction: Creative Non-Fiction: 20 pages double-spaced. Creative Non-Fiction may include autobiographical writing, personal essays (but not academic essays), travel writing, literary journalism (but not newspaper reporting), commentary, and cultural reviews (but not technical reviews). In essence, we are looking for any non-fiction written in your own opinionated voice – as opposed to the more neutral, formulaic style characteristic of most academic, technical or newspaper writing.

Children's Literature: 20 pages double-spaced text (no illustrations) for any age level or combination of age levels (chapter books, middle-grade, young adult, picture book). Work should be intended for children and/or young adults.

Translation: 15 pages double-spaced, except poetry, which should be single-spaced (one poem per page). Submit translated work into English in any literary genre. Please indicate language and publication information for source text. Faculty evaluating the translation may request that applicants forward the original source texts.

Lyric and Libretto: 20 pages. Pieces can be song lyrics or short prose/poems you deem conducive to being reworked as song. For libretto, submit 10-20 pages as text, with or without score. In addition to either of the above, include links to three musical pieces hosted online (Soundcloud or similar).

Notes on the Portfolio File

Your portfolio MUST be uploaded as a single file. If using a word processor, look up how to combine / merge multiple files in Google or in the help documentation of the word processor. There are multiple ways to do this, depending on your word processor and operating system. It may also be possible to combine your portfolio materials into a PDF using Adobe Acrobat or a similar PDF creation program or online utility.

*We cannot provide technical support for students having trouble creating their portfolio file. Please do not leave this to the last minute.

If you have submitted your portfolio and need to update it before the deadline, or if you submit your application without uploading your portfolio (this is possible, as it will trigger your electronic referee requests), you must contact us directly to update/add the portfolio file, as you cannot add this yourself after the application has been submitted.

Important Note: Since the portfolio is an admission requirement that is unique to our program and the online application system is UBC-wide, the system does not recognize this document in the "Program Requested Experience" field and will automatically move it to "Other/Misc." field. This will prompt a message stating that your application is incomplete; please disregard this message if you have uploaded all of the requested documents.

Maximum file size: 10MB

Appendix: Comic Script Template

Please use this format (or a format with the equivalent amount of information) when submitting comics scripts as part of your application.

TITLE IN ALL CAPS

by First Name Last Name

Script for X-Page Comic OR Script for X number of X-panel strips.

CHARACTER NOTES

CHARACTER 1: Short description (about 25 words).

CHARACTER 2: Short description (about 25 words).

Etc.

ART NOTES

Briefly note what materials you plan to use, whether the comic is black and white or colour, any specifics about the lettering, panel borders, etc. that you want the reader to know.

PAGE ONE – THREE PANELS

PANEL ONE

Start each page with the page number, followed by the number of panels. Underline it. Then put the panel and number in all-caps. Underneath it (here) is the panel description, in bold.

1. CHARACTER ONE: Dialogue.

2. CHARACTER TWO: Dialogue. Note that the lines are numbered. Each number indicates a new word balloon, thought balloon, caption, etc. Restart the numbering on each page, not each panel.

PANEL TWO

When you mention a character for the first time in the panel descriptions, put their NAME in all-caps. Some people cap the name every time it appears in the panel description and sometimes people put action words in all-caps. For example, “TOM, a small chicken, RUNS across the road, desperate to get to the other side.” When deciding what to put in all-caps, try to do whatever would provide clear and concise communication with the artist and letterer if they were not you.

PANEL THREE

Keep the panel descriptions concise, just enough information so that the reader can understand the context for the action and dialogue. The following are some examples of how to describe captions:

4. CAP – FLOATING: The night before...[This indicates an “unboxed” caption, i.e. without a border.]

5. CAPTION: This indicates the usual boxed narration.

6. CAP – CHARACTER NAME: This indicates that the caption box is a specific person’s thoughts.

LETTERING NOTE: If you have a lettering note about one specific line of dialogue, put it here.

PANEL ONE

This is how you'd title a splash page. If you have a two-page spread, just hyphenate, PAGES TWO-THREE. Some people start a new page (in Word) when they start a new page in the script, but this is optional. The following are some additional instructions for formatting dialogue.

1. CHARACTER NAME (OP): If a character says something off-panel (on the phone, or as a carry-over from the previous panel) you can handle it like this.
2. CHARACTER NAME: If you want a word to appear in bold or italics in the lettering, format it accordingly or add a note for the letterer like the one on page 2. Be sure not to overdo the fancy formatting because it gets hard to read.
3. CHARACTER NAME: If a line of dialogue starts in one balloon but ends in another ...
4. CHARACTER NAME: ... use ellipses to indicate that. Okay, I'm sure there's more but that's all I can think of right at—
5. CHARACTER NAME: Hey! If someone interrupts, use an em-dash (—) as shown in the previous line. The following is an example of how to indicate a sound effect.
6. SFX (Door): SLAMMM!
